1. Provincial headquarters of the SIA are known as Military Control Centers and have under their direction Sub-centers in surrounding county capitals.

2. The Control Center is generally headed by a colonel or lieutenant colonel under whom there are two or three officers and two non-commissioned officers. Each Center has its own radio station for communication purposes. This, however, is not true of the Sub-center which communicates with its Center by courier.

3. Sub-centers are run by a single officer assisted by a non-commissioned officer. They are generally located in the same building as the headquarters of the Territorial Command in each county capital.

4. The following is a list of Military Control Centers of the SIA with their chiefs and counties under the supervision of each:
